

A painting of a desolate landscape. The foreground is a sandy, uneven terrain. In the middle ground, there is a dark, flat expanse, possibly a body of water or a plain. The background is a vast, hazy sky with soft, diffused light, suggesting a distant horizon. A large, solid black circle is overlaid on the lower-left portion of the image, partially covering the foreground and the dark middle ground.

Ooh, desolation!
Adventure, adventure, and death.
Endure calmly like an old block.